THE COMPANY

The Page Parkes Corporation makes its home in the heart of Houston's flourishing Galleria district. The building, which bears the corporation's name, provides an urban feel, much like agencies in New York and Miami.

The Page Parkes Agency Network is part of an international system of model management agencies which represent talent consistently appearing in recognizable advertisements for Calvin Klein, Gianni Versace, Banana Republic, Valentino, Target, Bombay, and Levi's along with publications such as ELLE, Vogue, Seventeen, Bazaar, GQ and Men's Health. DIVISIONS

The Page Parkes Center of Modeling & Acting, founded in 1981 and licensed by the Texas Workforce Commission, offers seminars for development as well as personal improvement workshops. It has long been an industry leader and measuring stick for quality and integrity in its development process. The facility consistently surpasses itself in the never-ending mission to provide model and talent hopefuls access to the most current information and resources.

Page.713 Model & Talent Agency also established in 1981, is where it all began. The Houston office houses the corporation's national headquarters and continues to set the standards for innovation and integrity. Known as the model development ground, the Houston agency currently represents more than 400 models for thriving local print, runway, and commercial broadcast industries.

Page Parkes Management headquartered in Dallas, Texas and opened in 1985 as a "model management" agency. This arm of the Page Parkes Corporation quickly garnered an international reputation for launching the careers of many of the world's most exotic faces, establishing a trend for the new standard of classic beauty.

INTERNATIONAL AGENT REVIEW

Every year hundreds of Page Parkes hopefuls spend months preparing for the opportunity to audition for the most powerful fashion and commercial agents, personal managers and casting directors who come to Houston for one weekend each year searching for their next new discovery!

Page Parkes has spent the last twenty-five years developing a reputation for providing the world with incredible new modeling and acting talent. This reputation proves valid as both the International Agent Review and Commercial Agent Review averages an incredible 85% callback ratio ~ unheard of in the modeling and acting industries!

MODEL CAMP

The Model Camp division began in 1990 as a way of expanding the scouting scope. This innovative “baby” of the company makes the Page Parkes method available to those all over the United States. It’s total submersion for a weekend. Only those with the highest potential for development are accepted into this exclusive division. At the conclusion, each lucky participant leaves with a complete new “industry-ready” look and all the tools necessary for their first step towards an exciting new career – including portfolio, comp cards and/or headshot and the “how to’s” of self-marketing.

PROMOTIONS

Early on, the Page Parkes Corporation developed a special division designed to provide a promotional/advertising service to our clients while facilitating our on-going search for the most outstanding faces and talent. This in-house group of marketing/fashion experts works to promote the Page Parkes reputation locally and nationally through co-op packages with retailers, radio stations, magazines, newspapers and shopping malls. Recent partners include Levi’s, Kenneth Cole, Macy’s, Sephora, and Seventeen Magazine, just to name a few. Past promotions have been extremely effective and beneficial to all involved due to the cost efficiency of sharing advertising costs through co-op packages.
